ROYAL VIST COMMITTEE PERFECTING ALL DETAILS

FUN OF THE FAIR FOR YOUNG AND OLD;
RACES AND SPORTS TO SUIT ALL TASTES

With a full determination to really "go to town" in the matter of fittingly commemorating the Royal Visit to Wainwright, and the celebration which will continue for the whole day (and night) on June 3rd, the committee are working night and main to the end that even the slightest detail will not be overlooked.

Letters are pouring in to the committee from such widely scattered areas as Furness (Sask.) in the east to Viking in the west, and from Clonad in the north to Monitor in the south, all signifying a desire to have their school children attend the affair here.

A study of the problem therefore shows that Wainwright will have such an influx of visitors on June 3rd as will entail lots of work on the part of the committee to ensure that all have the real good time hoped for, as well as the best possible chance to see their Majesties during the twenty minutes of their stay in town.

Plans as formulated will have all motor cars, trucks and other vehicles parked on the two blocks on Third avenue east adjoining the Town Hall and the I.O.O.F. Hall, with a man or men at those points to assist and direct the placing of these so as to conserve all space possible. The streets leading to Railway avenue will all be closed to vehicular traffic south of Third avenue during such time as the royal train has left town, so as to avoid any chance of accident or confusion.

As at present laid out, the plans call for ALL school children—who will be under the control of Dr. H. Wallace, Mr. J. Good, and others, and in the immediate charge of their respective teachers—to first gather at the memorial clock tower and (after receiving their souvenir medallions) to be in their places at the rope barrier at the station grounds. LATER the children, 7.45 a.m., and behind the youngsters will no doubt gather thousands of adults (parents and friends) all being on the north side of the royal train.

A big squad of R.C.M.P. officers will be assisted by the members of the Canadian Legion from this district who will police the station and grounds, and keep things orderly there, and any necessary directions to the crowd will be announced over a couple of loud speakers of a powerful public address system.

Following the departure of the royal train, the Town Band will lead off from the east end of the station grounds, being followed by the school children in procession to the Fair Grounds, where Mayor Dr. Middlemass will address a few words of welcome to them, and then, following the gift of their "treats", release them for their day of pleasure at the midway, sports, races and other attractions, which will last until the dewy eve brings forth the "ahs" and "ohs" of delight at the splendid display of fireworks which has been arranged.

Refreshments, meals, soft drinks and water will all be available at the grounds, and nothing is being left undone to ensure that every child and every adult, whether local or visitor, shall long remember the Royal Visit to Wainwright on June 3rd, 1939.

Corporal Collett, Recovers "Hot" Car

On Wednesday last, Corp. J. Collett, R.C.M.P., who had received previous word of a break-in and theft from the town of Castor, kept a look-out for such good purpose that he discovered the car in which the gangsters made their getaway, hidden in some brush just south of town.

It appears that the depredators visited Castor early last week and, after blowing the safe in the Fredrickson garage and obtaining $370.00 in cash, they broke into several stores. They then loaded up a "dealer's car", a new 1938 sedan from the garage, with goods taken from the stores and made their way north to Wainwright. A heavy sledge hammer, used possibly by their safe-cracking, was found in the car.

Apparently they jumped a freight at this point, after hiding the car in the hope of later recovery of the vehicle. The police are still busy working on the case.

Viking Presents Rose of Danube

Sponsored by the choir of Wainwright United and Anglican churches, the comic opera, "Rose of the Danube" was presented in the Elite Theatre here on Tuesday, May 9th, by Viking United and Anglican church choirs, with assistance from the Lutheran and St. Mary's choirs. Unfortunately, owing to the busy season, only a small crowd was in attendance but those who were present were loud in their praises of the beautiful production.

It was a colorful scene that greeted the audience when the curtain was raised following the playing of the interlude by the orchestra and gay costumes, beautiful girls and smiling faces all contributed to the enjoyment of the crowd throughout the two-hour entertainment.

The scene of the opera was laid in the fictitious little kingdom of Euprolandia and the plot concerns the coming of a moving picture director to this little kingdom. The country was in bad shape financially and conspirators were ready to start a revolution to overthrow the government. The movie director decided to stage a huge production of the annual Rose Festival, utilizing the royal family as chief actors. On learning of this the chief conspirator, Count von Popova, decided to turn it into a real revolution and take control of the country.

He calls on the aid of two henchmen who, while not enthusiastic about the plot, agree to assist. Thus is the plot laid for a very interesting time for the royal family and citizens of Euprolandia, and also for the audience which was privileged to view the production. Sparkling dialogue, snappy chorus numbers, duets, quartets, etc., all played their part in keeping the action moving merrily along and brought loud applause from the small but enthusiastic audience. Fourteen principals, a 30-voice chorus and a fine orchestra presented the opera to perfection. Indeed, it is difficult to see how any part could have been bettered, either in casting or acting.

The scenery was the artistic work of Mrs. H. Tollans, assisted by Mr. Lester, and Mr. Clark was the happy man with the trunk and other stage effects. Mr. Ken Hilliker and Mrs. J. L. Anderson were co-directors and from their cast go our hearty congratulations on a first-class production.

New Silver Dollar to Honor Royal Visit

Welcome news to the public is the announcement that a new silver dollar of commemorative design is being struck by the royal mint to mark the visit of Their Most Gracious Majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth to the Dominion.

The new silver dollar differs in design from the two issues that are now in circulation. The obverse impression (face side) bears the likeness of His Majesty King George the Sixth with the inscription: "GEORGIUS VI D-G REG ET IND: IMP:". In place of the customary Northern scene—canees, voyagers, Indian, lake and wooded island—the reverse side shows the Central block of the parliament buildings, Ottawa, with the stately Peace Tower in the centre. Surrounding this design is the inscription: FIDELITY BRAVERY INTEGRITY. Below the design is inscribed: CANADA, 1939, 1 DOLLAR, with a beading encircling; a graining on the edge.

The first silver dollar was struck in honor of the Jubilee of the late King George V and the second issue after the accession of His Majesty. The silver dollar will be available early in May at all branches of chartered banks.

Through the co-operation of the Honorable N. A. McFarlane, K.C., M.P., postmaster general, this new coin will be made available at the post offices in places where there are no local branch banks.

Miss Gladys Young left for Camrose at the week end. She plans to make her future home at that place.

URGE EARLY START ON ROAD WORKS

An early start on road construction before the touring season is in full swing, is being urged by officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

Last year, it is recalled, there were complaints over the lateness of some of the reconstruction work on the Edmonton-Calgary highway, between Red Deer and Crossfield. Government officials replied that the delay was due to weather conditions and work had been expedited as rapidly as possible.

This season the public works department has given contracts for over 100 miles of main highway improvements, including re-gravelling and material for "blotter" surfacing as well as "seal coating", which is the top course of bituminous surfacing.

These contracts include work on the Jasper highway, of which 31 miles will be reconstructed, and also work on the Edmonton-Calgary highway, which is to be "blottered", while a "seal coat" is to be laid between Millet and Ponoka.

Various road projects in the southern part of the province also are being undertaken, while officials state that the work will be pushed ahead rapidly.

Fortcoming visit of Their Majesties the King and Queen make it essential that Alberta highways should be in the best condition possible to handle the big volume of motor traffic during this period, according to officials of the A.M.A.

City Visitors to See 'Desert Song' June 1

The beautiful and melodious "Desert Song" by Sigmund Romberg will again be presented by the Edmonton Civic Opera Society for the special benefit of the city visitors on June 1st, 2nd and 3rd. Presented in March, the musical comedy enjoyed such a wave of popularity that it is being presented again when Their Majesties visit Edmonton. It is one of the finest amateur productions ever to be shown in Edmonton, and has an entertainment value for everyone in the family.

With a background of Africa in 1925, the plot is with a band of Riff tribesmen led by the mysterious Red Shadow. The tribe is an African Robin Hood band that robs the rich to give to the poor and tries to mete out justice where injustice has been done. The palace of the sultan, governor of Morocco, a harem in the desert, colorful French military uniforms, Riff costumes, soldiers' wives, dancing girls in Spanish settings—all combine to form one of the most brilliant pageants of song and color that has crossed any Western Canadian stage in many seasons.

Abounding in rich harmonies and appealing melodies, with as dramatic a plot as one could want, Sigmund Romberg has penned a light opera that has been considered the author's best. This is saying a lot when you remember such famous works as "Student Prince", "Maytime", "The Girl from Brazil", "Her Soldier Boy" and many others.

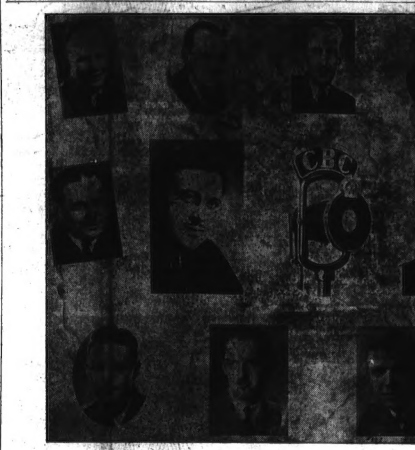

Many of the airs from "Desert Song" are loved and known by all. They include such melodies as the stirring "Riff Song", "The Sabre Song", "The Desert Song" and "One Flower in Your Garden".

It is a beautiful show that will be enjoyed by everyone, and the Edmonton Civic Opera Society is holding off advertising the show in the city until the country people have had a chance to secure the choice of seats. If you are planning to visit Edmonton on June 1st, 2nd or 3rd, it would be a good plan to send in your order now and have your seats reserved at once. The prices are most moderate so make up your party and plan to have a grand evening's entertainment while in Edmonton.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Giles James and Family wish to thank their many friends for the kindnesses extended to them during their recent bereavement, and also for the spiritual and floral tributes received.

Tired of Life, Dies by Hanging

The community was startled last week to learn that Mr. Karl Emil Nilsson, who has been farming the Neil McFadyen place some seven miles south of Heath, had committed suicide by hanging.

It appears that some time on Tuesday the deceased had written a short note in very broken English, and after placing it on a prominent place on a table in the kitchen had deliberately gone to the barn and hung himself from the rafters by jumping off a manger.

The deceased, who came originally from Sweden and to this district in 1928, was discovered by Mr. McFadyen, who immediately notified Corporal Collett, R.C.M.P. The note stated that he was tired of life, owing to continued ill-health and debt.

No inquest was considered necessary under the circumstances, it being a plain case of self-destruction. No known relatives are in Canada. The body was brought to Wainwright and the funeral was held here on Thursday last.

70c Price Held Insufficient By Elevator Man

Limiting Deliveries to 5,000 Bushels Disregards Economic Factors

William McG. Rait, member of the North-West Grain Dealers' Association and a member of the Bracken delegation which waited on Premier King and the Federal cabinet at Ottawa, made the following statement with reference to the Government's amended wheat legislation: "The changes in agricultural legislation, especially the increase in the basic wheat price to seventy cents, are a partial recognition of the justice of the claims put forward by the Bracken Committee. I do not consider this price satisfactory, however, as it is not sufficient to maintain the wheat industry on the Prairies."

"The proposal to limit the price benefit to a maximum of 5,000 bushels delivered by an individual farmer is an arbitrary decision. It gives no consideration to the economic factors surrounding larger scale farm operations and will bear heavily on a large and very essential class of farmers."

Furthermore, if open market prices remain below 70 cents, these larger scale farmers will be selling their excess over 5,000 bushels in competition with the Wheat Board.

"Assistance to farmers with poor crops is a welcome feature of the legislation. It should be emphasized, however, that all these are emergency measures. The more permanent problems have yet to be studied and solved. A determined effort must be made to reduce farm costs and expand markets so as to prevent the recurrence of such emergencies in the future."

The DIAL REVIEW

by Walter Dales

May 7th saw beginning of a new type of radio drama, heard from C.J.C.A., Sundays, 3:30 p.m. "Diamond Dramas" have earned the favorable criticism of many leading dramatic critics and should help foster the growing tendency in Canada to study and appreciate dramatic effort.

And speaking of drama, here's a word of hope to the many Albertans who submitted their work to the CBC in a recent drama contest. Even if your script was not among the prize-winners, you're very likely to get a cheque for it anyway, because it was recently announced that the general merit of scripts received was high, and the Corporation intends buying several of the "almosters."

If drama interests you enough to get you out of bed at 7:00 a.m., I think you'll find "Central City" well worth your attention. You'll catch the echo of small cities you've known. You'll go behind the scenes in lives that remind you of people you've known. And you'll hear some exceptionally fine acting with a commentator's role superbly handled by Tom Powers.

C.J.C.A. To Cover Royal Visit!
Extensive plans are afoot in Edmonton to make the royal visit broadcast here one to be long remembered. Besides the CBC broadcasts, which will be carried in their entirety by C.J.C.A., additional vantage points will be selected by the station, and station announcers will describe the processions. Visitors in the various bleachers along the route will not only see the parade as it passes them, but will hear complete descriptions of the entire ceremony, by means of an extensive public address system which will carry the station's features.

Becoming a familiar personality on the C.J.C.A. wavelength is Bob Fritz, famous football coach and mentor of our own Edmonton Eskimos—the team that is so well supported by all Northern and Central Alberta. Watching Bob broadcast is as pleasant as hearing him. He's a big fellow, dark and handsome, and he talks to the microphone just as authoritatively as he does to his footballers when they are in a huddle. A university graduate, and a sportsman from away back, Bob has already won a loyal following among radio listeners. His first play-by-play report of the Edmonton Grads game against the St. Louis Legion won him a host of friends and his subsequent broadcasts have added

Motor Patrols On Roads Soon

Within a short time, motor patrols of the Alberta Motor Association will be operating on the main highways connecting with Edmonton and Calgary.

These patrols, sponsored by the Edmonton and Calgary branches of the A.M.A., gave splendid service last year and motorists who received aid were loud in their praise of the service.

Many drivers who were in need of emergency aid were aided by these patrols. On occasion, the patrols assisted in getting the disabled car to a garage and in giving other emergency service.

At the same time, the patrols will check up on infractions of the traffic laws with a view to ensuring greater safety on the highways.

They will seek to bring about a reduction in the number of "one-eyed" cars operating on the highways, cars operating without proper tail-lights, and those found to have other defects in equipment.

The patrols will endeavor to obtain the co-operation of the drivers in seeing that traffic regulations are observed, all of which will tend to make Alberta highways safer for the driving public and enhance the reputation for courtesy now held by motorists of this province.

DID YOU EVER SEE THESE?

Oh! by the way, did you ever see a man carrying a billboard under his arm? No. Did you ever see a hand-bill on a reading table? No. Did you ever see a picture of the new hat you want come into the home via radio? No. Did you ever see a live newspaper thrown into the wastebasket without being read? No. That's why advertising in The Star brings results.

THE PLANT SYSTEM REACTS TO SHOCKS

Two stages in the life of a plant are (1) the vegetative and (2) the reproductive. During the first the development of root, stem and leaf occurs, and the second phase is normally that of fruit or seed formation. Some plants both vegetate and reproduce in the first year; others, such as the turnip, are biennials which make their vegetative growth in the first year and go to seed in the second, while trees do not usually reproduce or bear fruit until they are several years old.

A plentiful supply of nitrogen increases vegetative growth, while an excess prolongs it and retards reproductive development. Phosphate and potash, on the other hand, promote maturity, the former influencing the seed or fruit production, the latter the formation of fibre, starch and sugar in the plant.

Reproduction of its kind is the ultimate purpose of every plant, and special efforts to do so are exerted when the existence of the plant is menaced by untoward circumstances such as a critical diminution in the food intake. An example of this may sometimes be seen in a field of turnips, where here and there an underprivileged plant shoots up and goes to seed.

One has heard frequently and perhaps seemingly crude and weird, often offering to force trees into bearing or flowering plants into blooming, says B. Leslie Emalie, chemist-agronomist, yet most are explicable on the basis of the principle mentioned. A shock to the system will do it! An amateur florist practised the expedient of applying liberal doses of salt to the roots of his flowering plants a day or two before placing them on exhibit. The plants thus attacked expended their efforts toward reproduction by blooming luxuriously in an attempt at survival in their progeny.

In Natal it was customary to drive stout wooden pegs through the stems of banana plants, after the fruit had formed, so that the bunches might be well-developed. The same principle is involved in the old custom of driving nails into or "ringing" the trunks of fruit trees, in order to make them bear. Nowadays the skilled and more scientific florist or horticulturist knows how to obtain the results desired by the utilization of other means for adjusting the food supply and its balance.

Root pruning may often prove beneficial.

efical, and in orchards this may now be accomplished by means of a sub-soiling machine which deposits the fertilizer simultaneously, at depths varying according to the nature of the soil and other factors.

SEEDING OF VEGETABLE GARDEN

Many attribute failure of seeds to germinate to poor seed. While it is true many seeds do fail to germinate, it is not always the fault of the seed, but too often the fault of the sower by sowing too deep or not deep enough, states J. Gallaher, Head Gardener, Experimental Station, Kentville, N.S.

Preparation of the seed bed or rows is very important, having a bearing on the germination of seed.

Assuming the land is ready for seed sowing, having been ploughed and cultivated (or dug with the spade, forked over and raked off), unless this loose ground has been made fairly firm by treading (or leveling in the case of larger areas), the seed will be liable to rot in this loose ground following rains and cool weather at this time of year. A garden that is ready for seed sowing or planting should be in a condition that one can walk over it and not sink to the ankles in soft ground.

Seed for any purpose should be sown in rows, whether in the open or in flats in house or hotbed.

A garden line is necessary to keep the rows straight, and should be taut, not loose. A marker should be used. This could be a 2x1-inch stick, six to eight feet long, with a notch 1/2-inch deep on the same side at the other end. Place the notch over the line and push the stick along the line, which will leave a drill for sowing. The 1/2-inch notch should be used for small seeds, and the other end for larger seeds such as peas, beans, etc.

If a shallow drill is required, do not bear down on the marker; if a deep drill is required, bear down heavily on the marker. Remove the line to the next row and so on until rows are all ready for sowing.

The rows should be spaced the distance apart required for hand or horse cultivation, whichever method is used for cultivating and keeping the weeds down.

There are many devices advertised for sowing seeds, but for the average person, where there is not a large area to sow, the package the seed is in is as good (sometimes better) than any device on the market. Open end of package, bend the sides up so the package will be concave, and with a gentle quivering of the hand the seed will come out thinly.

To cover the seed, take an iron rake with teeth uppermost and draw it along the drill. This will give even covering, then take the rake by the handle (head down) and beat the surface of drill, making the soil firm around the seed.

The benefit of fairly firm soil to firm soil is that when seeds have germinated and roots commence to form they prefer this environment, rather than loose open soil where the tendency is for the loose open soil to dry out if drought sets in.

As to the proper depth for the various kinds of seed to be sown, a good plan is to sow all seeds about three times their own depth.

Famed Quints' Dr. Exacting Car-Buyer

Calendar, May 3. Special despatch.

—Almost as exacting a motorist as he is in his role as guardian of the health of the renowned Dionne Quintuplets, Dr. Allan Roy Dufosse has returned from Toronto with a gleaming new automobile which offers the last word in comfort and safety in this rough northern country.

Always a keen radio fan, the round little "Country Doctor" included a radio among the accessories and "extras" which he stipulated for his 1939 Chevrolet Deluxe Coach. There is a heater to keep the chill out of the air in all but the mid-summer months; a defroster to protect visibility through the sleet and ice storms, and knee-action to ease the car over the rutted and bumpy roads which are the lot of the Northern Ontario motorist immediately he leaves the pavement.

The luxury of a motor car radio is not fully appreciated by city motorists, Dr. Dufosse contends. They have no idea of the clarity and extent of reception available in the sparsely settled northern community, he says, and he himself would never think of driving a car without the latest radio equipment.

It was exactly 23 years ago that Dr. Dufosse—then an obscure country doctor of whom the world was not to hear for another 18 years—bought his first Chevrolet, a "490", and graduated from the horse-and-buggy class. Throughout the years, he has been careful in the care of his successive cars as he has been discriminating in their selection. Despite two years of hard service under exacting road and climatic conditions, the 1937 Chevrolet coach which the Doctor turned in on the 1939 model was in first-class condition.

The Doctor's fastidiousness in motor matters is reflected by his insistence that his new car be given an extra coat of heavy wax to facilitate polishing, and also that seat covers be installed to protect the upholstery.

Once again, the famous little practitioner, who has an "O.R.E." as well as "M.D." after his name, has been furnished with the distinctive license number of "D-70"—the best-known license number in Northern Ontario.

A MILE OF MODERN CABLE COST $2,000

It costs approximately $2,000 a nautical mile to make a modern submarine telegraph cable, according to engineers of the Canadian National Telegraphs. To lay a modern Atlantic cable of 2,000 nautical miles requires an expenditure of about $150,000. A cable ship has capacity for from three to four thousand miles of cable and under fair weather conditions can lay about 200 miles a day. The world's cable-laying and repair fleet consists of 45 ships and they have to maintain some 368,000 miles of submarine cable. Two Western Union-Anglo cable ships are based on Halifax, N.S., and the amount expended yearly in wages, supplies, etc., amounts to nearly a million dollars.

THE DANGEROUS

MIND!
Even the visit of the King and Queen of Britain to Canada is being taken advantage of in some quarters to make political capital. As an illustration of this, we note in a recent issue of The People's Weekly, official organ of the C.C.F., some rather bitter remarks about the amount of money being spent on public receptions while some Canadian people are going without proper clothing. This attitude is uncalled for and not worthy of Canada or Canadian people.

The People's Weekly is a wholehearted supporter of the American Federation of Labor and also gives support to the C.I.O. Yet the heads of those organizations and many of the officials are paid princely salaries and live in the lap of luxury compared to the living standards of only too many laboring people. But never a word is mentioned about this condition.

The People's Weekly at times gives a sort of left handed pat on the back to the rulers of Soviet Russia. Yet there is just as wide a gap between the rulers of that country and the poverty-stricken peasants and laborers as in any country of the world.

Canada has spent about a billion dollars on relief in the last nine years, which, it must be admitted, is a fairly generous expenditure for a young, undeveloped, under-populated nation. In this country have possibly been on a higher per capita scale than in any other world nation except the immense wealthy United States. Surely, there should be some appreciation of that fact.

Surely, too, the C.C.F. would not expect Canada to appear ignominiously on the occasion of the first visit of Britain's King and Queen to the Dominion. A pennurious attitude would make this North American nation the laughing stock of the world.

It would be well for Canadians to drop politics for a brief period and for once to show a spirit of harmony in welcoming the King and Queen to Canada. The truth is that only through the British monarch is the British Empire possible, and even the German Chancellor, Adolf Hitler, admits that the British Empire is a power for stability and for good throughout the world today—Hanna Herald.

THE WHEAT POLICY

With a patient ear to the ground we have listened for a wild cheer from the west over the 70c minimum price for wheat announced from Ottawa last week but all we heard were a few war whoops. Having wrung an extra 10c a bushel from an unwilling administration, the west feels more sullen and unappreciative than elated over the achievement. It also feels apprehensive for the future because it is unthinkable that it may require annual crusades to obtain a decent price for wheat, says the Brooks Bulletin.

The government seems to be on the horns of a dilemma on this wheat question. Whatever it does is sure to be wrong in the eyes of a substantial part of the dominion. So the wheat problem is a knotty, mean one with little appreciation, whatever is done. No wonder governments flinch at intervening in wheat marketing!

The west has a cogent argument in its contention that Canadian industry is bonused by tariffs and the wheat farmers should be similarly treated. But where in all the world is there an important country whose industry is not coddled and protected in many and devious ways?

The best thing that could happen would be for natural events to increase the price of wheat to a reasonable point where a decent living could be made by the western farmer. Federal governments with annual wheat problems on their hands are going to be very unhappy.

SAFETY PATROL
MOVEMENT GROWS

Safety education for motorists, which is one of the primary objectives of the Alberta Motor Association, is continuing to gain ground in this province. Owing to the representations made on behalf of the A.M.A., officials of the Alberta department of education are showing a greater interest in extending this course of studies in the schools. Now there are high hopes of something being provided for the term which opens next September.

Copies of Sportsmanship Driving courses have been furnished to education department officials by the A.M.A., and the result that new interest has been created. These courses were prepared by the American Automobile Association and are in wide use in the United States.

Millions of safety lessons and posters are supplied to schools annually by the A.A.A.

Approximately 275,000 members now have been enrolled in school by school boy patrols in the States and the number is increasing monthly.

In Alberta this movement has made substantial gains, and there is strong evidence that it will show even greater popularity as time goes on.

Locomotive of Royal Train Ready

Scheduled for the biggest job ever assigned to a steam locomotive, Canadian Pacific engine 2850, photographed at the Angus Shops in Montreal, is ready to haul Their Majesties the King and Queen on their 3,000-mile trip across Canada. The royal tour will mark the first time one engine has made a continuous journey of this length, and 2850's record will not be equaled on the tour.

Specialty re-fitted and decorated for the occasion the big Canadian Pacific locomotive is a mass of shining stainless steel, royal blue, silver and gold. The semi-streamlined engine bears the royal arms over the headlight which has been sunk flush with the front of the boiler-casing. Imperial Crowns decorate each running board; the crest of the Canadian Pacific appears beneath the window of the cab and, on the tender, the royal arms four feet high are blazoned in relief.

The general decorative scheme comprises a background of deep blue on the underframe, smokebox, front of engine and all marginal work on engine and tender. The sides of tender, cab and running boards are painted Royal Blue.

A panel of aluminum leaf laid in diagonal squares matching the panel on the cars of the royal train extends half way on the tender. The panel is outlined in gold.

The jacket on the locomotive, handrails on it and the tender and other trim is of stainless steel. Gold leaf has been employed on the engine numbers.

Engineer Eugene Leclerc, of Quebec, who was fireman on the royal train in 1901, will be the first Canadian engineer. He has been in regular Canadian Pacific service between Quebec and Montreal for approximately 48 years.

Peter Milne arrived home early on Sunday morning, looking very much better than when he went away some months ago. We hope his return to health is really permanent this time.

We observe that Roy Evans is very busy assisting in the Post Office these days. It seems that he is absorbing as much knowledge of the general routine as possible, because such knowledge may prove very useful to him later on. Here's wishing you luck, Roy.

Moving day looms in the offing for the J. A. Barr family, owing to the fact that Mrs. Golding and Jackson will be returning at the end of June and naturally wish to reside in their own home. It's a good way to get over the business of spring cleaning, 'tis said, which is something.

Mrs. R. Kingston entertained Thursday evening in aid of St. Mary's W.A. (Anglican). Twenty-four ladies played bridge—and talked, too, so we hear—in spite of which Mrs. Stratton won the prize.

Mrs. J. I. Sawyer was on the sick list for several days with a very severe cold, but we are glad to see her out and about again.

The dance, which was postponed on May 5th was held last Friday following the show, but those who were so disappointed at the previous postponement must have been "kidding", for a large part of the dancing crowd appeared to be strangers—to us, anyway.

A silver tea and sale of home cooking sponsored by the ladies of St. Mary's W.A. was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Evans Saturday last. The ladies are very grateful to all who patronized the affair.

The Jitter Bug Card Club met last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brown. This week Mrs. Harold Brown will be the hostess.

AMONG THE OLD-TIMERS

"REMINISCENCES OF OTHER DAYS"

TEN YEARS AGO

Mr. Geo. Morton has improved his town residence by planting a hedge of caragana around the lot.

Mr. G. C. Tory has been allowed his patent rights from Ottawa on the new disc grinder which he recently invented.

Miss Leah M. Bryans, daughter of Mrs. Robert Bryans and the late Mr. Bryans, of Chilliwack, B.C., and Mr. Edward Frederick Thurston, of Wainwright, were married at St. Thomas' church, Chilliwack, on Tuesday, April 28th. After a short honeymoon at Vancouver, they will take up residence in the A. Woodward house on Third Avenue, Wainwright.

The Wainwright Pharmacy have erected a neon sign over the entrance to their premises, which lends a very attractive appearance.

Mrs. Mary Reid was a patient in the hospital during the past week. Mah Kee, proprietor of the Hero Cafe, who has been visiting relatives in China for some time, returned to town last week.

As a sign of the times, there is not an available house for rent in town, and every building is occupied.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Mr. Chas. Ward has laid a new maple floor in his home on Third avenue.

After spending the winter in Washington, Mrs. Stinson and her daughter Vannie returned to town last week.

Mr. H. Montgomery has improved his home on Fifth avenue by the addition of a verandah.

Mr. Alcide Girard, who ran the Alberta Livery all during the winter months, returned to his farm south of Fabyan last week.

Mrs. Lola Seabourne, of Heath, passed away in an Edmonton hospital following an operation.

Word has been received that a new liquor store is to be opened in Wainwright in the near future.

On Wednesday morning, about 1 o'clock, a call was put through to the fire brigade that sheds on the farm of Mr. Harry Mabey were on fire. Due to the quick response from town, the fire was put under control before it had a chance to spread to other buildings.

HEATH

Mr. Turnbull returned on Saturday from Edmonton. He was accompanied there by Stanley Davis, who was operated on at Friday.

Mrs. McLeod was a tripper to Edmonton over the week end.

An unfortunate occurrence happened during the week when Emil Nellson, a bachelor farmer from east of Heath, was found by Neil McFayden hanging in his barn.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith and family visited relatives at Winter, Sask., on Sunday.

The Young People's Club met on Friday evening at the school.

SUDDEN DEATH OF ROSEMOYNE RESIDENT

Another old-timer, Mrs. Isaac Tenant, of the Rosemoyn district, passed away Thursday last at the age of 69 years. Although she had been in poor health for some time, her sudden demise came as a shock to her many relatives and friends.

Large numbers attended the funeral service held in the Orange Hall, then the long procession of cars wound its way to the Edgerton cemetery for interment.

Following a brief graveside service conducted by the Rev. Andrew Love, the ladies of the L.O.B.A. took charge and concluded the ceremony according to the rites of that Order.

Heartfelt sympathy is extended to the sons and daughters in their sad bereavement. Mr. Isaac Tennant predeceased his wife several years ago.

GREENSHIELDS

On account of the Wednesday half holidays, livestock will be loaded here on Tuesdays until further notice.

A mixing plant for grasshopper bait is being established here and will be in operation within a few days.

We regret that Mrs. C. Morrisette has been a hospital patient since Friday.

By way of assisting Mr. Harry Jackson during his illness, several neighbors gathered at his farm and sowed wheat on Thursday.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. R. Marshall on the birth of a baby girl May 10th, in Edmonton.

Mr. J. A. Patterson has spent several days in hospital, suffering from a severe cold.

We understand Marshall Jackson lost a valuable saddle horse Saturday afternoon. Having been gored by an enraged bull, the horse died. Luckily Marshall escaped injury.

The Ladies' Aid were entertained Thursday afternoon at the Tilbury home. About 20 members and visitors were present for the enjoyable meeting. Mrs. E. Jackson was the winner of the contest and was presented with a royal souvenir pin. Mrs. Daniels assisted Mrs. Tilbury in serving a delicious lunch.

Ronald Morrison was a visitor in Chauvin Sunday.

A Thrilling Story of a Mysterious Inheritance

3 Strange Men

by C. T. PODMORE, Author of "The Fault", etc.

Torkney merely gestured. "In any case," he said, "we shall want your son at the office to sign the agreement."

"What agreement?" demanded George.

"Without your signature, what happens to the fortune man who finds this hidden treasure? It is a sure-thing business, and superficially he would rank as a thief, wouldn't he?"

"But you have my father's instructions."

"Even so, that would not prevent your challenging his state of mind."

"State of mind?" Geoffrey Parmiter roared. "D'ye think I'm mad?"

Torkney was coldly silent. "I do," said George.

Again that darkling look in old Geoffrey's eyes. "Get it done," he said huskily.

George Parmiter was fingering the pin. Torkney watched him for some moments, as if he had really a profound interest in his personality. "Do it if you like," he said, almost as if he washed his hands of it all.

George, looking aside, sent the pin-point through a pane.

Mr. Torkney picked up the sheet and read: "Ephraim Diggs, undertaker... Leicester."

George applied the pin to the next leaf.

"John Rumely, gentleman... Bristol."

And the third: "Arthur Boxwith, clerk... Manchester."

The pause was broken by Torkney's slow rustling of the papers, while a ghastly look overspread Geoffrey Parmiter's face as he stared at George.

"I'll send you the charts, now that's done, Mr. Torkney. All different—all sealed up—all ending in one place by different ways. I worked 'em out myself, every foot of 'em, ground, like I knew this was coming. There's no hurry for a day or two. You can wait till I'm dead."

"Say this day twenty years hence," George suggested to the lawyer.

"Twenty hours—that's it," agreed the sick man, as if he had not clearly heard. "Bout that. Leave me those names. And you, George, my boy—good-bye. If I had you aboard ship, I'd give you the rope's end. Anyhow, it's bloodstained, all of it."

"Is there anything I can do for you?" George asked very gently.

"Jowie does all I want. He's better than women—all of 'em. 'Cep p'raps it might have been your mother, mebbe. Remember her? It's a long time since, George, ain't it, boy?"

Twenty minutes later George Parmiter and the lawyer, having taken a little refreshment downstairs, walked down the garden path together to the car.

"It all seems to me the sort of lurid joke I used to read about when a boy," George was saying. "And there's no thing ailing the old man, you know. He'll see ninety. What do you think?"

Mr. Torkney's calm brown face seemed to harden as he looked into the other's frank eyes. "I think," he said, "your father is dying."

CHAPTER III

GEORGE SIGNS HIS NAME

Jowie as all this may have appeared something in George Parmiter's mind gave him suddenly a new slant on his father's secret treasure. The importance to other people of what had been said and done displayed the idea that the treasure was really imaginary, and his father's mind unbalanced.

Torkney, as they returned together to the City, betrayed no inclination to discuss the subject. One or two remarks he heard with a nod; others he answered with a merely superficial comment; some scraps of their conversation were quite beside the question at issue. His manner was just legal, casual, unaffected by any strangeness.

But for George, with time to reflect, authentication was in the air. Perhaps this reality was more than a South Sea legend. Torkney had not seemed to care overmuch whether the act of repudiation injured George or not. It made no difference to him in fellow; he was impersonal. If Torkney's daughter had been the deciding factor, as Stephen Cordery was, Torkney would have had more to say, no doubt. Probably Torkney thought George a fool. Perhaps Torkney had no daughter, and might never have one; or even a wife, for that matter. What could such an unemotional mummy of a man understand about love? In the thick of such musings, George had a quick roseate uplift in the notion that he could, and did, prefer Sophie to all the treasure in the world.

Before they parted, he made one direct attack on Torkney's professional manner. "I should like," he said, "your advice about my father. What you said has made me feel anxious. Are you convinced that my father is dangerously ill?"

"More mentally than physically," the lawyer replied. "It is a very considered opinion. Strong men die sometimes of mental overstrain."

"Then what ought to be done?"

"As probably you know, your father will not have a doctor. Skipper Geoffrey Parmiter has an idea that doctors will not do as they are told. All I am suggesting is that the matter on his mind just now should be disposed of as quickly as possible."

The tone was indifferent.

"You do believe in it, don't you?"

"So far as it is possible to do so," Torkney shrugged. "He needs ease of mind. Mere procedure may bring that. Should I say that we hope there is nothing in it, for your sake?"

He did not smile.

"Whether or not," George declared, a little resentfully, "I wouldn't give up Miss Cordery."

"No—of course not. And in the meantime, look in at our office towards noon tomorrow, and we will take your signature. No time should be lost. I think, if it will do your father any good."

George went on to his office in Tottenham Court Road, where he had work to do, yet could think things out quietly in relation to Sophie and her mother. They ought to be told of this intimate development.

While he turned over one possibility and another, a discussion on the same subject was progressing in the office of Reed, Price and Torkney. Reed, sitting with his back to the window, his brow drawn down over his dark eyes, was obviously not the type of man to give heed to fairy tales. Price, a less formidable personality, but impressive as a cool and thoughtful man of affairs, also absorbed Torkney's report, with a measure of doubt and reserve. Yet both were stirred by the novel experience, when Torkney read out the names and style of the three men who had been so casually chosen to take the hazard of a fortune.

"I have been thinking particularly," Torkney continued, "that two of these men can hardly be supposed independent on the financial side of the matter. The third, Rumely of Bristol, nominally a gentleman, may be well able to finance himself. On the other hand, he may not. He may be in the position of having a broken fortune to repair. Parmiter apparently has no money on his side of it. But we can deal with that. I think we are really in touch with treasure—not a romance, George Parmiter will sign himself out of it in the morning. The way then will be clear for all concerned."

Reed's smile looked acidly critical. "And if the treasure turns out to be a myth," he said.

"No," Torkney promptly rejoined. "My opinion is supported by something that occurred on my first visit to Tooling some time ago. It did not impress me then as evidence of anything—save of its own existence. Parmiter showed me from a little box in a drawer in his room a handful of fine pearls, and a beautiful emerald set in a fragment of old gold. Worth a heap of money. These probably belong to separate circumstances, and are perhaps to be the old man's present to George's future wife. They would be safer with his bankers. But Parmiter would not listen to that."

"Nothing to do with us," said Reed. "We know the position," observed Price. "What are we getting at now?"

"Routine," Torkney answered. "Only one of these men can succeed. We ought to know which one. Any or all of them could disappear, or declare the thing a hoax. Careful provision must be made; we must ensure our having complete data of the business, and of its completion. It's unusual. Let us consider what routine is essential to it."

Torkney's partners agreed.

George Parmiter got along with his problem far less easily than his father's lawyers did with theirs. It took him a long time to get back, with an effort, to his sceptical idea that no treasure existed. But if it did, that being a speculation, it would have to be considered as the price he was prepared to pay for Sophie Cordery and his happiness. How could he explain to her the black story his father had unfolded to bar their union?

He passed the evening alone in his rooms in Brompton-road, rather inclined to trouble about his father's strange illness than to dwell on the weird fancies that rose out of it.

Next morning, somewhere about the time appointed, he presented himself at Curator-street.

Mr. Shrey, the managing clerk, and a typist were present with Torkney. Reed and Price had gone to the courts, having left their regrets that they could not personally offer their congratulations upon his splendid determination in a matter that might mean so much—or so little. George faced the formality before him with an assumption of indifference, signing his autograph with swift, bold strokes of the pen. It was all very businesslike and polite. Soon over.

"That's done," remarked Torkney, as he locked the paper in a drawer. "You simply realise that you have now no claim in the affair." It sounded as if George were being forbidden the place. But that was Torkney's manner.

"And thank your partners for their compliments, won't you?" George responded, with a shade of sarcasm.

Before George left the private office, however, Torkney rather obviously turned something over in his mind.

"By the way," he said, "are you aware that your father has some small treasure—perhaps not part of the specific treasure—in his room?"

"I was not aware of it."

"That's all right," continued Torkney. "And a pretty large emerald. I have seen them. Very valuable jewels. They are not safe there."

"Perhaps not," George agreed. "Still, I suppose no one knows but you?"

"Does his man, Jowie, know?"

"If he does, I should think Jowie is all right."

"Jowie seems to have been a seafaring man."

"Yes. Cook—steward—so on. He has sailed with my father in time."

"Does he sleep in the house?"

"Not usually. He may be doing so at present."

"Candidly," Torkney summed up, "I should not like the temptation, knowing what I know, of being in Jowie's place there."

"You are not serious?"

"I am. These things should be in safe keeping. However," Torkney pulled himself up on a sudden thought. "Perhaps they are, Jowie, as you say, may be quite all right. I presume those jewels will eventually be yours."

"I must say I hope so," George said cheerfully. "Did you advise my father when you saw them?"

"I did—but you know his way."

"Oh, yes," agreed George. "He will take his own time."

"His own time," murmured Torkney, almost inaudibly.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

I'VE A TERRIBLE HEADACHE

Milton Mackaye, in the current number of Hygeia, lists headaches as the most democratic of discomforts. He says that over half the people who enter doctors' offices describe headache as one of their symptoms, that directors of industry give it as the cause of 20 to 25 per cent. of employee absences, and that in homes, schools and offices that dull throbbing in the skull is the enemy of efficiency and happiness.

Headache used to be treated by shaving the head, searing the scalp with red hot poker, by blood-letting and by magic. Nowadays people perpetrate past errors by treating the headache rather than by trying to treat its cause. There are hosts of powders, pills, and capsules supposed to dull a headache to sleep. Some of them will temporarily do the trick. None of them cure.

What are the causes of headache? The writer referred to above lists headaches as mechanical, toxic and functional. It is a good classification.

A mechanical headache is due to diseases of, or damage to the head itself. It may be caused by a cold which plugs up the sinuses leading to the nose. Free drainage is the solution. Eye headaches are due to some eye defect. The cure is obvious. Have your eyes examined by a competent oculist and the eye defect corrected by proper glasses. There may be headache from the concussion which follows an injury to the head. In such cases there will usually be nausea and vomiting as well.

Toxic headache is produced by such poisons as tobacco, alcohol, gases and drugs or by internal poisons manufactured by the body. These internal poisons arise from defective action of liver, kidneys, stomach and bowels. Overeating, over-drinking and the use of poisoned foods are frequent causes.

Functional headaches may be the result of high or low blood pressure, anemia, mental strain and migraine. Migraine is a mysterious sort of disorder in which the patient complains of distortion of vision, flashes of light before the eyes, nausea and usually one-sided headache. Some persons are tortured by migraine. Certain foods, known as allergic, heredity and nervous factors are all blamed for the condition. A new drug, ergotamine, is said to be effective for migraine. But do not take it without having your doctor first prescribe it.

Success Campaign for Horse Epidemic

Up to May a total of 204,111 doses of "chick" vaccine, used as a preventive for sleeping sickness among horses, have been administered in this province, since the campaign against the sleeping sickness started, Alberta agriculture department officials stated Friday.

So far no specific case of the malady has been reported either in this province or Saskatchewan.

Officials state that reports have been received "which would indicate that in some municipalities almost all of the horses have been vaccinated against the disease."

It was pointed out that in some districts road conditions have delayed taking preventive measures, and officials state that "horses which have not been vaccinated should be treated immediately to insure immunity."

ANGORA WOOL FROM CANADIAN RABBITS

Centred in the village of Abercorn, Quebec, one of the newest of Canadian industries, the breeding of angora rabbits on a commercial scale, is now entering its third prosperous year. Run by a co-operative unit of several breeders the industry boasts about six hundred angoras, each producing about a pound and a half of wool a year. An increasing demand for the silky, long-haired wool is aiding the industry in its growth, says the April issue of the C-I-L Oval, in which the co-operative activity is described. Eight times as warm as sheep's wool, angora is in demand as a lining for aviation uniform linings, muffs, gloves and scarves, says the article. Hollywood also uses angora to line silk dresses to prevent them from rustling before the microphones. A feature of the Canadian wool is that it does not shed.

SIMPLE DISHES SUCH AS THESE TO BE SERVED ON ROYAL TRAIN

Meals of simple character but as definitely Canadian as the season and circumstances will permit will be served to Their Majesties, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth and the members of their entourage during their long train journey on this continent commencing on May 16. Catering arrangements throughout the Canadian tour and during the visit to the United States have been entrusted to the dining car department of the Canadian National Railways and Chef Instructor James F. Morgan of the National system, has been selected as chef for Their Majesties. All of the meats served will be Canadian produce and Canadian dairy products will be used throughout. Canadian butter and cheese being well-known to British consumers for their choice quality, though French and Swiss cheese will also be available. Maple sugar and maple syrup will at times be included in the menus.

One essentially Canadian feature will be buffalo meat. The joints, after passing Government inspection, will be carefully selected and properly hung so that they will be tender and juicy and full flavor. The season of the year precludes game so that some items thoroughly in Canadian character will be missing. However, there will be ample supplies of choice domestic poultry, including the Brome Lake ducks and ducklings. There will be a variety of fish from Canadian waters, both salt and fresh, including the delectable Winnipeg gold-eye.

Here are some recipes for typical dishes secured from the chef who will prepare the meals for Their Majesties, and which our readers are privileged to try for themselves.

Chicken Broth, Southern Style
Raw chicken meat cut small, together with minced onions and sliced green peppers all fried together with butter, little flour then added and stirred, moistened with poultry stock, seasoned lightly with curry powder, salt and red pepper, boiled up.

Spilt Pea Soup
Spilt peas soaked overnight put to boil in white stock with onions, celery, carrots and salt pork. When done thicken lightly with roux to prevent settling, remove the pork, rub the rest through a tamia, bring to boil again, season to taste, add the pork cut in small dice, serve with croutons.

Bolled Halibut Steak, Cream Sauce
The fish scaled and trimmed, cut into steaks, simmered in boiling salted water containing a dash of vinegar, served with either lobster clam cream or hollandaise sauce.

Whitefish, Broiled
Take the whole sides fresh from bones, moisten with olive oil, season with salt and pepper, dredge with flour, broil well done over a clear fire, serve in portions with maitre d'hotel butter, garnish with parisienne potatoes, lemon and parsley.

Braised Sirloin with Stuffed Tomatoes
Sirloin larded and braised, taken up when done, the liquor strained, skimmed, and mixed with Espagnole sauce, minced fried mushrooms and sherry wine, then rapidly reduced to a glaze; the meat served in slices with some of the sauce and garnished with stuffed tomatoes and stuffed sliced onions.

Roast Capon Stuffed With Rice
Draw and wash the bird, wipe dry. Fill the inside with rice which has been boiled in stock, season with salt, pepper, nutmeg and a few herbs. When filled, truss breast, cover with bacon, and tie with string, roast and baste. When nearly done, remove bacon from the breast, brown, serve garnished with watercress and some veloute sauce.

Stuffed Breast of Mutton
Sauce Robert
Lean breast of mutton. Make a pocket the entire length between the meat and rib bones, fill with stuffing made of sausage meat mixed with minced onions, parsley, mushrooms and a few fresh bread crumbs. Sew up the opening and steam until cooked. Serve in portions with sauce Robert.

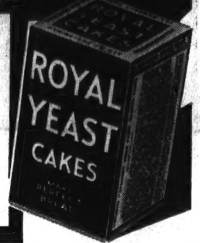

Apple Roly Poly
A biscuit dough containing a little sugar, rolled out thin, spread with minced apple, seasoned with grated lemon rind, cinnamon, or ground cloves according to taste, rolled up, the ends tucked in, tied in a cloth for boiling water (in a mold for steaming, in a pan for baking); serve with a sauce, or with sweetened cream.

Souffle Rothschild
Fill a souffle case in alternate layers with crushed macaroons, pitted cherries and sponge cake. Pour over this a hot Sabayan sauce or a custard sauce flavored with sherry. Let bake for 10 minutes, put a spoonful of currant jelly on top, and cover this with light meringue; let brown and serve without sauce.

Half an hour is ample time to allow for baking of medium-sized apples.

NEWS & VIEWS OF TOWN AND DISTRICT

Plan to visit Wainwright on June 3rd. See Their Majesties and enjoy the big day of celebration.

Commemoration medallions—exact replicas in bronze or silver of the official gold medallions which will be presented to the King and Queen by the government of Canada, are on sale at the postoffice now.

Mrs. Fred Hart and her daughter, Miss Edith, spent a couple of days in Edmonton last week.

"There is an old proverbial saying that 'The sole is half the soul!' This is implicitly true, for who does not feel his natural self when wearing well-shod shoes—shoes which are repaired by skilled craftsmen with fine grade leather, essential for long service and comfort? For that added essentially take your shoes to the O.S. Shoe Repair; the price, above all else, is pleasing. Harness repaired like new.

Mrs. W. Fraser, of Winnipeg, is here for a short stay with her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. J. Robinson.

We welcome Mr. Gunnar Rostrop, of Edmonton, who arrived on Monday to replace Mr. Thompson on the ledger at the local bank.

It is pleasing to note that Mr. J. Robinson is now "up and around" again. Although still a little weak, Jimmy is looking lots better following his recent illness.

"You can't afford to take chances when driving. Get insurance on your car if it's the last cent you have. The very best of drivers often meet some big fool on the road and the result is likely to be disastrous to you and to your family unless you can leave the matter to the insurance agent. Joe Welch will attend to it for you; phone 57.

Mr. Kenn Turry, who has spent the last several months in New Zealand and Australia, arrived back home last week end and has long and varied experiences to relate.

"See that dandy new 'Frigidaire' on display at the Standard Pharmacy. It will save its cost in food kept from spoilage. Easy terms arranged.

The Edmonton Commercial Grade started out nicely again in the new Underwood Basketball Trophy series with the Cleveland Nookids on Saturday last. They made 61 points to their opponents' 32. In the game on Monday evening they repeated their triumph by a score of 39-26.

Plan to visit Wainwright on June 3rd. See Their Majesties and enjoy the big day of celebration.

"Get your spring cleaning and painting done NOW. You'll enjoy the satisfaction given by our paints, varnishes, etc. Atlas Lumber Co., Joe Welch.

Mrs. R. Paton has returned from a trip to visit relatives at Wetskiwin last week.

Mr. Sid Worton, formerly of The Star staff, was over from Camrose on Sunday to visit with friends.

It is really pitiful to consider the loss Wainwright is sustaining by the lack of continuation of its annual school musical festival. Very many other centres much smaller than ours are reporting highly successful festivals these days, and with the splendid array of cups and trophies lying idly by, something MUST be done about this feature of our youngsters' training!

"Building supplies were never cheaper. Make your plans to build and repair NOW. Atlas Lumber Co., Joe Welch; phone 57.

REFRESHMENTS

The city youngsters have nothing on the local lads, for some town boys took their first swim of the season at Clear Lake on Sunday last. And they say the water was—ugh!

Fred Johns and Alex Horne, of The Star staff, were gallivanting around last week end, Edmonton, Andrew and other popular centres being their rendezvous!

We are sorry to learn that Mr. J. Welch is still decidedly "under the weather" from his recent sick spell, and here's wishing Joe a quick restoration to complete health and contentment.

Plan to visit Wainwright on June 3rd. See Their Majesties and enjoy the big day of celebration.

His many friends will be glad to know that Harry Clipston is now getting around again, and although still somewhat weak after a long siege of illness he's hoping to be soon back "dishing out the bottles".

Rev. Father Hickey was down from Edmonton for a couple of days last week visiting Father Malone in town.

Congratulations will shortly be in order for a popular couple of the town's young folks, whose wedding bells are to ring on June 1st.

A nice crowd visited the tea and home cooking sale put on last Saturday by the ladies of the C.W.L. in the Brunner showrooms.

We are happy to report that Mrs. Alec Adams is now progressing nicely following her recent operation, and making rapid strides to full recovery.

We are glad to see Jack Telford around again after another sick spell during the past week, and hope the continued fine weather will assist in his full and quick recovery.

The rummage sale and tea staged in the I.O.O.F. hall on Saturday by the girls of the C.G.I.T. was a happy and well-attended event.

The ladies of the Presbyterian L.A. enjoyed a splendid afternoon tea at the home of Mrs. W. Brunner on Friday afternoon last with a big attendance.

We learn that Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cowley will be moving into the Treffry house on Third avenue east shortly.

Plan to visit Wainwright on June 3rd. See Their Majesties and enjoy the big day of celebration.

This is "Clean-up" week in town, and although the great majority of our citizens have seen their duty to the community and have cleaned up, there are a number of places where a little better attention to this may save a visit from the Board of Health men. The manure piles, too, MUST be removed to the nuisance ground or the consequences suffered.

Mr. and Mrs. Benny Hodgkiss, sr., were trippers to the city last week end.

W. H. S. DANCE

I.O.O.F. Hall

FRIDAY, MAY 19, at 9:30 p.m.

Adms: 25¢ & 15¢

Mr. Careless, Householder: That slatternly backyard is no credit either to you or the community! Get it cleaned up right away, and show your civic pride!

Mr. and Mrs. Duke Ott motored east to Saskatoon over the week end, accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Stuart and Hazel, and Mr. O. Elder. Friend Bill returned home with them.

"Don't neglect your fire insurance. The rush of Spring work often causes fires at this time. Joe Welch, Insurance Agent."

NEW AND CHEAPER TELEGRAPH SERVICE

Montreal, Que.—Canadian National Telegraphs and Canadian Pacific Telegraphs today announced the inauguration on June 1 of an evening and Sunday service between offices in Canada. The evening and Sunday rates which become operative between the hours of 7 p.m. and 4 a.m. daily, these times being applicable at point of origin or destination, and all day Sunday, will provide a fast service and are designed to encourage the greater use of the telegraph service in evening hours.

On and after June 1, the public in Canada may file at any time a 40 word fast message to any point within the Dominion, deliverable between the hours mentioned above, at the rate previously charged for a ten word fast message.

TRAVELLING DARK ROOM FOR ROYAL TOUR

Ottawa, Ont.—A photographic dark room is being provided in one of the baggage cars of the 12-car pilot train, which will precede the royal train of King George and Queen Elizabeth on their tour of Canada and the United States. The primary purpose of the pilot train will be to protect the royal train, although the pilot train, which will include seven Canadian National Railways' cars of standard colors, will convey press representatives, photographers, radio representatives and members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

HOPPER PLAGUE LIKELY LARGER AREA

The grasshopper forecast for Alberta this year is for an outbreak covering a larger area than in 1938, with an extension of the infested area westward and northward, and a light and patchy area recorded for the first time in the Peace River district.

The range of severity of infestation over the Province is termed "light" to "very severe" depending to a great extent upon the growth and climatic conditions last fall and this spring and early summer. Where the forecast is termed "severe" there is a threat of widespread damage of great intensity, which necessitates control measures on the part of farmers in those areas. Even in the light infested zones grasshoppers may be expected to be present in sufficient numbers to cause definite losses to individual fields. Therefore, the hopper condition for 1939 continues to be extremely serious, and will require that the province continue its widespread and well-organized control campaign to avoid tremendous losses of crops in many large districts.

The provincial government is placing supplies and supervisors at the disposal of municipalities and improvement districts in order to combat the expected outbreak. Farmers within the grasshopper infested area are required to comply with the provisions of the "Provincial Agricultural Pests Act" in control of grasshoppers.

Communities and municipalities wishing to hold public meetings or requiring information, should communicate with the Field Crops Branch of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.
